TomTom Global Graduate Program 2016

What is your story…now…in a year…in 2 years?
We want to hear it.

This is ours.
At TomTom you will never get bored. We move fast like a "start-up" but have the benefits of a billion euro company. We design and develop innovative products that make it easy for people to keep moving towards their goals.
And we like to have fun. There is no sense coming to a job everyday if you don't like the people you work with.

Stay with us, it's getting even better.

For our world-class Graduate Program 2016, we are looking for tech savvy and passionate:

- Product Marketing Managers, who are dreaming of performing market research and developing market knowledge and who want to uncover the next big thing for our Accessories and Action Camera
- Product Managers, who think that playing with products is more energizing than a morning coffee and that networking, negotiating and managing multiple demanding projects is part of their DNA
- User Experience Designers, who have solid design skills and a working knowledge of design principles, patterns and trends and are fluent with common design and prototyping tools
- Software Engineers iOS and Android, who take their mobile device everywhere and instead of sharing photos they share iOS and Android code and who think of themselves as Masters of Android Studio, Gradle and Ant.
- Software Engineers C++, who have knowledge of and experience with C++, knowledge of Java, Python, and/or OO practices, as well as Operating System concepts and cross-platform development, and
- Test Engineers, who are experienced with Automated Test tools such as Robotium, Ranorex, Selenium, Squish, Calabash or (embedded) QTP, and equipped with programming skills in automation frameworks using Java as well as good scripting skills (e.g. Python, Ruby, UNIX/shell scripting).

Do you have less than 2 years of professional experience but already good stories to tell? Do you speak English just like Shakespeare but have an international mindset?

Then our Graduate Program is YOUR program.

You will feel like a TomTommer in no time, supported by an entire team of experts from HR to Business leaders.

We will make sure we give you the learning and development tools you need to achieve your goals.

You will really be able to make a difference. As part of the Graduate Challenge, you will work on your own ideas for features, improvements and new products, with the opportunity to see your own input come to life in our products.

With great power comes great responsibility; we will encourage you to have a positive social impact beyond the workplace. How? That's up to you. Our commitment is to support you with making a great idea happen.

We believe talent comes from everywhere so we will make sure you get the necessary support in case of relocation.

Want to achieve even more?
You can find a little taste of your challenge at www.tomtom.com/careers

Apply now and follow us on LinkedIn to make sure you get the entire picture of our Graduate Program.

We're looking forward to receiving your application in English.

Pre-employment verification as well as phone interviews and online assessments are part of the following selection process: